DEBORAH LEE GALESİ

Deborah Lee Galesi, after having lived various lives between the Universe and Mother Earth, is born once again, in Paterson, New Jersey, U.S.A..

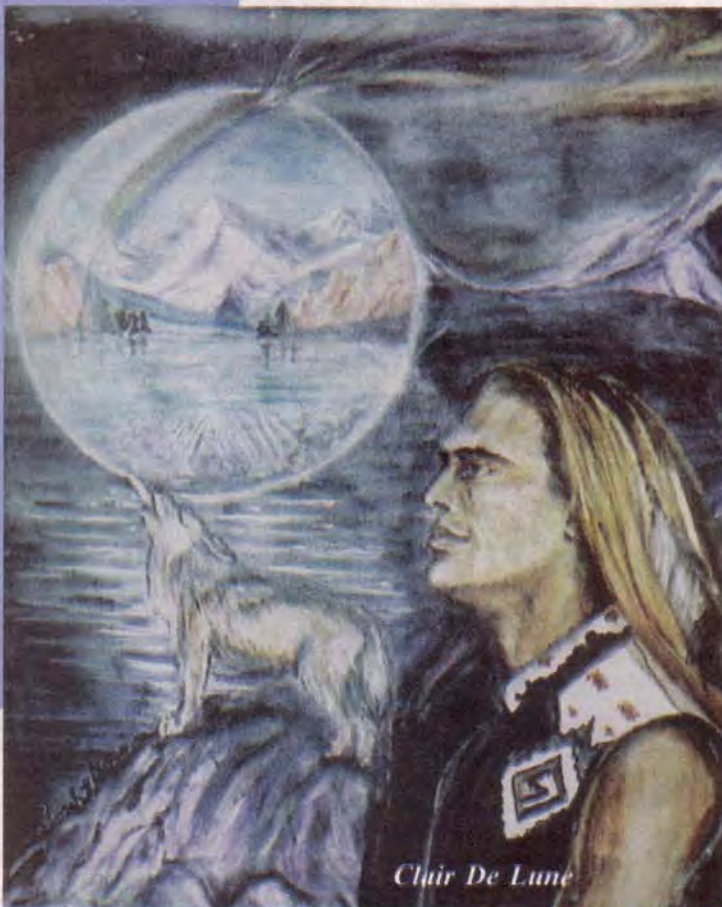

As a small child, she discovered a great love for oil painting, and was encouraged by her teacher to follow this strong passion. Eleanor Egg was her first private Art Instructor. After some years, Deborah graduated at the University of Colorado, with a BFA (art, psychology). Then, continuing her private lesson with Maestros Raymond Whyte and Gene Scarpentoni from the 'Art Student's League' N.Y.C. she was able to show her work in N.Y., Colorado, New Jersey and France. Her work is collected privately in U.S.A., France, Japan, Italy and Mexico.

She taught for some years in the U.S.A., and after her Maestro Gene Scarpentoni's death, she travelled all over Europe in search of a new Maestro, when she found herself in Florence. As she continued her artistic path Deborah began studying at Villa Schifanoia, but not to her satisfaction. Therefore she happily finds herself as an apprentice with Ben Long, a student of Annigoni specializing with portraits. Today, Deborah shows us various styles in her work: Conceptual An Impressionism, Symbolism, Naif, Fantastique, New Realism, Surrealism, depending on her spiritual moments thus, her paintings are based on the vibrations received from places or lifetimes, or, from space without time.

In reality, since childhood, Deborah has always been attracted to Florence, by the magical energy of the Renaissance, which allowed Deborah to know her Inner Self more fully. Deborah's paintings transmit many messages for humanity so that humanity may remember the true fundamental values of love, life and nature.

Her art captures the invisible world and metamorphosis, essential and important. These are the keys to believing in our dreams.

“ Listen to your higher self and open “ says Deborah who likes many noted philosophies such as that of Native Americans, Deepak Chopra, Einstein and Richard Bach.

She loves studying spiritual books, especially about Christianity, Hinduism, Taoism, Methapsical. Buddhism and Rasta.

She is a great fan of Michelangelo and Salvator Dali. Deborah loves the snow, especially of Colorado, where she left her heart. She is crazy for the exotic and tropical places where there is Mystical Magic, Whales and Dolphins express to our Artist infinite, worlds, superior to ours. This is why she loves to follow the activities of Greenpeace and the Pacific Whale Foundation. Her other passions are Chinese paintings, scuba diving, snorkeling, roller blading, kajaking with the whales, bow shooting and dancing “Tap, Ballet, Jazz and Modern”.

She is now married to Samuel Corbinelli, her Art Director and resides in Kihei, Hawaii. Because of her love for the Native American culture “Indians” and their connection with mother earth she received an Indian name ‘Rainbow Star’, in the Hawaiian culture ‘anuenuē oku rainbow star’. Samuel and Debbie use the last name ‘Dolphin’ in honor of their mutual love of Dolphins.

they indicate that the soul is learning how to detach itself from identification with the mental, emotional and physical sheaths that it is encased within. By so doing, and over the course of many incarnations, the soul gradually learns how to remain disidentified with these three vehicles of the personality. This process becomes more rapid when the individual begins to consciously take his or her own spiritual development in hand. Spiritual passivity must yield to spiritual discipline. When this is the case, the rapidity of one’s development increases proportionally. With greater speed the soul disidentifies itself from its triple container, thus giving added capacity for it to radiate itself through the personality, and this with less distortion. Triumphant is the soul that perfects its outer expression, for karmic debt is now in the past, and radiation without encumbrance is its honor and its reward.
